Andrea Merida Officially Launches Bid for DPS School Board District 2

DENVER, CO – Andrea Merida will officially launch her bid to represent Southwest Denver on the Denver Public School Board on Wednesday, August 5. She is currently the only candidate that has filed her intent to run and is the only candidate actively campaigning in the district.

Andrea Merida has lived most of her life in Southwest Denver. She is a graduate of Lincoln High School. She was honorably discharged from the Army and has spent most of her professional career in social media and small business marketing. She has been a champion in her community and an advocate for families. She has been active with the Democratic Party and currently serves as a Captain in House District 2.

Over the last month, Andrea has been meeting with top political and community leaders and has garnered support from some of the city's top activists. A full listing of current supporters can be found on her website www.andreamerida.com.

Andrea Merida is running to represent all members of the Southwest Denver community. She believes that progress comes from working with the people impacted everyday by our current school system. Her pragmatic approach and ability to build strong community consensus will help Southwest Denver families fight for excellence for all schools. She will be an advocate for accountability, school safety, better technology and true effective investments in our public school system.
